

IRON HAND TO DEAL WITH REVOLUTIONISTS

New Administration Declares That Peace
Will Be Restored to Republic Within
Short Time; U. S. Interference Not Required

THE TOLL OF MEXICAN RULE

Seven presidents and emperors of Mexico have "listened last to the rifle's speech." They are:
MIGUEL HIDALGO Y COSTUÑA, Liberator, July 30, 1811.
GUAYMA MORELOS Y PAVON, President, Dec. 21 (22), 1815.
FRANCISCO XAVIER MINA, President, Nov. 11, 1817.
AUGUSTIN DE ITURBIDE, Emperor, July 19, 1824.
MAXIMILIAN, Archduke of Austria, Emperor, June 19, 1867.
FRANCISCO I. MADERO, President, Feb. 23, 1913.
JOSE PINO SUREZ, Vice President, Feb. 23, 1913.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 26.—Keen satisfaction was displayed at the palace tonight over late reports which indicated the early disappearance of revolutionary disturbances in the north and in portions of the south.

It is not expected that the Zapatista problem will be solved immediately, but several minor chiefs have announced their willingness to serve the new government.

Governor officials realize the probability of a difficult campaign in the south, but President Huerta, who commanded the federalists in the campaign which most nearly resulted in the ending of the Zapatista trouble and was checked only by Madero's benevolent interference, believes he knows the situation sufficiently well to end the trouble.

The Zapatistas have added to the list of towns they already occupied, Amecameca, on the Inter-oceanic railway, 30 miles southeast of Mexico City, and three others of minor importance. Raiding continues with the usual atrocities, but troops are in pursuit of the murderous bands for whom little rest is promised.

Allegiance Promised.—A revolution in the state of Guerrero appears likely of early settlement, since Jesus H. Salgado, the oldest and most persistent rebel leader, under promises allegiance.

According to government advisers, Venustiano Carranza, former governor of Coahuila, is making little headway in the new revolution inaugurated by him with Saltillo as a base.

To the report that Emilio Madero has been added to a group, that his brother Raul, has met the same fate at Torreón. Both these young men were actively allied with Carranza, and it is true, their taking off doubtless will have a deterrent effect on rebel activity in that district.

Carranza still holds the region about Monterrey, but General Trevino, the federal commander, who is at Monterrey, is said to have dispatched troops in the direction of Saltillo.

The government believes there will be little difficulty in regaining the rebel territory.

Re-looked at as Hopeful.—The region to the north of Monterrey, including Laredo, now held by the rebels, the government asserts, will soon be added to the loyal districts. Francisco de la Barra, minister of foreign relations, is authority for the statement that General Villamil, an influential partisan of the new movement, has already indicated a desire to cooperate with the new administration.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., who was allied with that movement, is known to have been for a long time under the domination of Pascual Orozco, Jr., and a telegram sent by

MRS. PANKHURST IS SENT TO JAIL; SAYS TRIAL BY COURT OF MEN IS LEGAL FARCE

Declares She Will Starve; Hostile Feeling Is Aroused by Militant Tactics in England

LONDON, England, Feb. 26. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, was committed tonight by the police magistrate here to the charge of inciting persons to commit malicious damage to property. Her defense was reserved for trial at the assizes.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Pankhurst sent a message to the Women's Social and Political Union, in which she says that the refusal of bail pending her trial renders it impossible for her to prepare an adequate defense.

In these circumstances I repudiate the right of the local authorities over my appointment, because I am a woman. I have no control to try me. I refuse to consent to a legal farce being enacted, and I shall begin by refusing to conform to the prison discipline while on remand. I shall take no food from the moment I enter prison.

If I am still alive when the day of the so-called trial arrives, the judge, counsel, and jury of men will have the shameful task of pretending

NO HOLDOVERS IN WILSON CABINET

OTHERS DECIDED UPON;
NOT ANNOUNCED

Burleson Is Only Senate or House Member to Be Selected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The cabinet situation which assumed definite proportions last night was not materially changed by today's developments which served only to confirm the finality of the selections of Messrs. Bryan, McAdoo, Daniels and Burleson and to disclose the steps by which other names had been eliminated from consideration.

It became known that Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania had been offered the portfolio of war and had refused it, basing his decision on the fact that he was a Quaker whose antecedents did not comport with the direction of that department.

It also was disclosed that Mayor Baker of Cleveland had been offered a cabinet position and had declined it because of public interests, and that Edgar H. Farrar of New Orleans, former president of the American Bar association, was being considered in connection with the attorney generalship.

Others Not Announced.

The men who will fill the remaining cabinet places, including the attorney generalship, secretary of the interior, secretary of commerce and labor and secretary of agriculture are said to have been decided on but the place each is to occupy still remains open to change. It is probable also that the position of secretary of labor will be created within the next few days so that Mr. Wilson will have an additional cabinet place to fill. The personnel of these remaining places has not been disclosed as yet.

The field for these positions was narrowed today when it became known that there would be no holdovers from the present cabinet and that no names other than that of Mr. Burleson would be chosen from the membership of the senate or house of representatives.

Gossip was active today concerning the choice of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston for a cabinet position. His name was connected with the filling of the post of secretary of the department of commerce and labor.

All Arrangements Made for Reception of "Pilgrim Army"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Final preparations were completed today for meeting the suffragist "army" under General Rosalie Jones, marching to Washington from New York. Cavalry women, automobiles and marchers will greet the marchers at Hyattsville, Md. A troop of 15 cavalry women under the command of "General" Genevieve Winnett, set aside to Hyattsville early Friday morning and escort the "army" to a point in the city where the remainder of the committee will be waiting. It also is planned to have automobiles, loaded with leading local suffragists, go as far as Hyattsville. The marchers also will be met by 16 members of the Girls Cross Country Tramping club of Washington. They are to tramp toward Hyattsville and intercept the approaching "army" and return to the city with it.

Mrs. Olive Schmitz of New York, driving her scout car, arrived here today for the reception and entertainment of General Jones and her pilgrims. On the arrival of the marchers at the headquarters here, a mass meeting will be held, at which a number of leading suffragists will speak. Among them will be Mrs. Raymond Brown of New York and Miss Margaret Foley, also of New York. The principal speech will be made by "General" Jones.

Jameson arrived at the suffrage headquarters at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge, Mrs. Meredith Nicholson and Mrs. O. B. Quarters from Indianapolis late today. All will take part in the pageant, March 3.

Colored Recruits.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—After a two days stay here the suffragist "army" of the Hudson resumed its march to Washington today and arrived at Laurel, 20 miles from here, late this afternoon.

Recruits from Baltimore started with the hikers, but all four turned back when the city limits were reached. At Elbridge five colored women with a banner inscribed "Votes for Colored Women" fell in line, but dropped out after walking several hundred yards.

Mayor Walters of Laurel delivered an address of welcome tonight. The hikers will start for Hyattsville, 13 miles from Laurel, tomorrow morning.

STEFANSSON PLANS 4-YEAR ARCTIC TRIP

Party Will Endeavor to Make
Explorations of Northern Seas

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, discoverer of the Thule Eskimo, made public today his plans for the four-year expedition he plans to lead to the Arctic next May. In this time he hopes to wipe off the map much of the white space indicating unexplored regions of the far north. Stefansson and his companions—eight or 10 picked men of science—will sail out of Esquimaux, B. C., near Victoria, the latter part of May or early in June, on the 20-ton steam whaler, Karluk, Jankenite rigged, purchased for the expedition by the Canadian government. The Karluk now lies in San Francisco harbor. During the next 10 days she will be overhauled and sent to Esquimaux. She will fly the British flag, as the entire cost of the expedition is to be borne by the Canadian government and will carry a crew of 14.

Will Take Wireless Outfit.

The barkentine will carry the party as far north as ice-filled seas will permit. Under favorable conditions they expect in September to reach land somewhere in the Beaufort sea, now unexplored. There they will establish a base, sending the vessel back and remaining for the winter. If this cannot be carried out, the expedition probably will land at Herschel island, remain there a week to establish a primary base, return to Etah, Patrick and spend the winter either there or at Herschel island. In the spring they will go north. They will return to civilization in September, 1918. Dr. E. M. Anderson, who was with Stefansson on his last trip, will be second in command. The others of the party have not been selected.

A powerful wireless apparatus, designed to carry messages 1,000 miles, will be on the expedition, in daily touch with the world. This apparatus will be erected wherever they establish their base.

Not After the Pole.

A million square miles of snow and ice north of the North American continent and Siberia will be explored, as far as possible. The party is not searching for the pole, if they find it will be by accident. Mr. Stefansson says: "What they want to do is to open the locked islands and seas of the north."

Stefansson will visit the blonde Es-

Y. M. C. A. TO START CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

An active campaign for the current expense fund of the Y. M. C. A. will be started next Monday. A budget of $14,000 has been decided upon, $5,500 of which will be raised by membership dues, $6,500 from dormitories and the remainder of $4,000 by subscription. Committees have been appointed and several teams will be at work.

The annual report of the association for 1912 was issued yesterday, as follows:

Work for Men and Boys.

The following figures will give some idea of the volume of work which has been carried on during the past year. Every dollar contributed by our subscribers has gone toward the making of character and the building of higher ideals into the lives of the boys and men of this community which fit them for greater usefulness.

TWO-BATTLESHIP BILL DEFEATED

APPROPRIATION CARRIES
$138,000,000

Wild Scenes of Disorder Mark
Four-Day Debate in the House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—After four days of debate, accompanied at times by scenes of disorder seldom witnessed at the capitol, the house tonight passed the naval appropriation bill, carrying approximately $138,000,000, and authorizing the construction of one battleship, six torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines. An amendment to provide for one battleship, instead of two, as recommended by the committee, was carried by a vote of 174 to 155.

An amendment offered by Representative Calder of New York, and adopted, requires that the battleship shall be constructed in a government navy yard.

As reported by the committee, the bill carried appropriations aggregating $148,000,000, and provided for two battleships, a transport and a supply ship.

Points of order by Representative Sisson, in the committee of the whole, struck out the transport and supply ship. Representative Alexander of Missouri, the chairman, holding there was no authority for the appropriations, because no vessels of this type ever had been authorized before.

"Big Navy" Men Surprised.

Until today the "big navy" men, headed by Representative Hobson of Alabama, and Representative Ayers of New York, had been confident that the two-battleship program would go through, and the result was by no means certain until the final roll call on the amendment.

Democratic Leader Underwood spoke for one battleship, and when the vote was taken, 174 Democrats voted for the amendment and only 155 against it. Of the Republicans, 102 voted against the amendment and 28 for it.

There was no roll call on the passage of the bill as amended, but Representative Roddenberry of Georgia, held up the vote long enough to predict that the senate would send the measure back with the provision for two battleships inserted.

Hobson Amendments Lost.

While the amendment for one battleship, which was offered by Representative Tribble of Georgia, was pending, Representative Hobson introduced amendments to authorize four battleships, three battleships, and one battleship and a dreadnought cruiser. Each proposition was lost by an overwhelming vote.

Throughout the consideration of the bill there were heated exchanges between members and frequent disorder. The climax came when Representative Murray of Massachusetts, standing before the speaker's table, demanding recognition by the chairman, was thrown bodily down four steps and dragged toward his seat by an assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Murray demanded recognition to make a parliamentary point of order against two members having the same views acting as tellers on a one-battleship proposition.

Representative Alexander of Missouri, presiding over the house, raised his voice and ordered Mr. Murray to the floor, and finally, by his direction, Mr. Murray was forcibly removed from the rostrum by a deputy sergeant-at-arms.

Speaker Clark took the chair and order was restored.

BOY IS KILLED IN SLIDE NEAR ASPEN

ASPER, Colo., Feb. 26.—Edward Frost, 19, son of A. W. Frost, was killed in a snowslide on East Aspen mountain today. The youth and his father were hauling a load of ore from the Visto mine in Spahr Gulch. The slide, starting far up the mountain, crashed into the gulch, then followed the road down which the sled loaded with ore was being hauled. The older Frost lashed his horses in an effort to escape, but the avalanche hit the rear of the sled, carrying sled, men and load 100 feet before it stopped. The boy who was on the rear of the sled, was crushed against the sled and buried under the snow. The father brought rescuers who extricated the body.

18 PARIS AUTO BANDITS ARE FOUND GUILTY

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(Thursday)—All but four of the 22 prisoners who have been bandits who terrorized Paris and its environs in 1911-12, were found guilty by a jury in the assize court early today. The exceptions were Rodriguez and the three women, Maitrejean, Schoofs and Leclerc.

WOMEN MAY EMIGRATE TO A SUFFRAGE STATE

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—An exodus of Massachusetts women to some state granting them suffrage was declared by Dr. Harriet M. Clark at the annual hearing before a legislative committee today to be inevitable unless the word "male" was stricken from the provision of the state constitution covering the qualification for voters.

FEW GRAFTERS ON FORCE NOW—GAYNOR

Committees Begin Sweeping
Investigation of New York Police

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The committee, one appointed by the state legislature, one by the board of aldermen, and one an organization of citizens, joined today in an effort to reform the New York police force. The result of their labors probably will be legislative bills providing for sweeping changes.

Mayor Gaynor was the principal witness before the legislative committee, while two of his predecessors, former Mayors McClellan and Low gave their views to the committee of aldermen. At the same time the citizens' committee, appointed immediately after the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, laid before the legislative committee detailed recommendations.

Mayor Gaynor declared that among the 10,000 New York policemen, there were not more than 50 grafters. His predecessor, Mayor McClellan, said that while the rank and file of the force were the finest in the world, their officials were the worst.

Would Add New Blood.

Mayor Gaynor suggested an infusion of new blood into the force by permitting the appointment of inspectors from outside.

By this he hoped to bring into the force army officers and other trained men not under the domination of the "system."

In explaining his views the mayor said: "Before I came into office, the heads of the police department went out of office, one after another, millions of dollars. Some of them now have their city houses, their automobiles, their yachts. I want to know who is going to go out now a rich man?"

"Why, when I became mayor, the police were getting about $3,000,000 a year in graft from saloon keepers. There isn't a penny of it paid today, except perhaps here and there by some scamp or scoundrel. The police of New York have other things to do than to see if a man takes a glass of beer on Sunday."

"I hope there will be no delusion at Albany. Do not think that the police of New York city are falling in their duty or are corrupt; it is not so. And do not get the notion that the newspapers aren't in this graft. They've been in it up to their armpits for 25 years."

EXPENDITURE RECORDS BROKEN BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Democratic opposition to the big expenditure for building contracted in the public buildings appropriation bill developed today soon after the measure was taken up for passage. Senators Smith and O'Gorman led the opposition and demanded that they be reduced by many particulars.

"We already have gone on record as spending more money than any other congress in history," said Senator Smith. "And I do not see any reason for passing many of these big items."

"If the senate is prepared to use public funds in this indiscriminate manner," said Senator O'Gorman, "I cannot join with it, although my attitude may imperil some items of vital importance to the state of New York."

Postoffice buildings to be authorized in small cities aroused the criticism of the opponents of the bill.

INVESTIGATION SMELTER TRUST AGAIN TAKEN UP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The department of justice has resumed its investigation of the American Smelting and Refining company, to determine whether it is a "smelting trust" in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

HECKER NEWSPAPER-LIBEL BILL MEETS WITH DEFEAT IN SENATE; TOO STRINGENT

Senator Hits Calls Attention to Irregularities of Public Utilities Measure

By WALTER LAWSON WILDER.

DENVER, Feb. 26.—An unusual spectacle was presented in the senate this morning when Senator Hitts, rising to a question of personal privilege, called attention to certain irregularities in the record of senate bill No. 1, the public utilities bill, which, he said, if not corrected, might invalidate the measure after passage. If this statement had been made by some other senator, it would not have caused so much comment, but Senator Hitts has been supposed to be unfriendly to this bill, and is indeed one of the so-called corporation group of senators.

Senator Hitts referred to the famous good roads bill of the Eighteenth assembly, which was declared invalid by the supreme court because of irregularities of record, and said he had in connection with that measure should be repeated this year. The principal amendments reported from the committee. He urged the authors and supporters of the measure to correct the record while there is yet time for this to be done, in order that the bill may stand or fall upon its intrinsic

WINTER DELAYS WAR IN BALKANS

TWO MAIN FORTRESSES
ARE HOLDING OUT

Bulgarian and Turkish Armies
Are Entrenched at Bulair

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 26.—Fighting was reported today between the Bulgarians and Turkish forces at Bulair, in the Gallipoli peninsula. No details have been received.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The operation of the five armies engaged in the Balkan war have been brought practically to a standstill by the wintry weather. Snow storms are frequent and the roads are in a deplorable state.

The daily official dispatches upon which the world is now compelled to rely for news from the theater of war, repeat the stereotyped statement: "Nothing of importance has occurred."

The news from the neighborhood of Adrianople is conflicting. The Bulgarian war department says only desultory fighting has been in progress, but a dispatch from a French correspondent inside the city says that since February 3 the Bulgarians have been delivering desperate and ineffective assaults on the fortress and bombarding it cruelly and fruitlessly. The correspondent confirms the report sent to the Turkish war office by Shukri Pasha, the military commander of Adrianople, that he has succeeded in getting a fresh supply of provisions.

At Bulair the Bulgarian and Turkish armies are entrenched, patiently awaiting a break in the weather.

Fail to Take Scutari.

The only heavy fighting, except at Adrianople since the war was resumed, has taken place around Scutari, where the Montenegrin army, now assisted by Serbian troops, again has failed in trying to take the fortress.

The Montenegrins are most anxious to capture the fortress as Russia has agreed to the Austrian demand that it should be included in the future Albanian state. With the town once in his possession, King Nicholas believes that his brother-in-law would insist on its retention by Montenegro.

The Greek army seems to be idle at Janina. An occasional report comes through of a movement by Turkish troops in Macedonia, showing that they are not entirely disposed of there, while the failure of the Greeks to take Janina, which is their objective point, is regarded as another indication that there is a lot of fight left in the Ottomans in that part of the country.

The Greek fleet now has extended its blockade of the Albanian coast as far as Durazzo in order to stop the resupplying of the Turks in Scutari and Macedonia. This action may give rise to objections by Italy and Austria on the ground that the blockade is ineffective.

Roumania Accepts Plan.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 26.—Roumania accepted today the offer of mediation made by the powers in the boundary dispute between Roumania and Bulgaria. The government's acceptance is subject to conditions which include the acquisition by Roumania of the Bulgarian town of Silistria.

To Demobilize Troops.

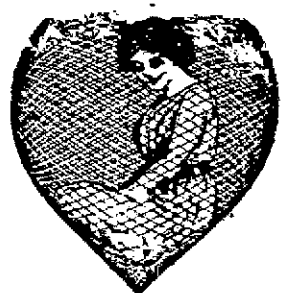

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 26.—Demobilization of the Austrian and Russian forces has been decided upon, according to information from a most reliable source, as a result of the general exchange of letters between Emperor Francis Joseph and the Russian emperor. The extra units concentrated on the respective frontiers, it is stated, will be simultaneously withdrawn.

News of Local Courts

A charge of theft against G. Gigax was dismissed yesterday in Justice
Summington's court, when a jury found him a victim of not guilty.
Gigax was accused of taking a pair of

The Upward Trend in Furniture

You would not have in your home much of the furniture that was sold at big prices a generation ago.

Simple lines and plain, beautiful designs, are replacing the big clumsy creations of lumber formerly in use.

This month our store is an interesting picture of this newer furniture era.

You will find a wide selection of "quiet" articles for your dining room, living room, den or bed room furniture of simple dignity for which the makers have gone back to Colonial days and periods of early England.

You will be repaid well for an inspection of these beautiful new furnishings for your home. We invite you to come while the stocks are unbroken.

Prices have advanced but you will find here the same moderate prices as ever.

IRON HAND TO DEAL WITH REVOLUTIONISTS

New Administration Declares That Peace
Will Be Restored to Republic Within
Short Time; U. S. Interference Not Required

THE TOLL OF MEXICAN RULE

Seven presidents and emperors of Mexico have "listened last to the rifle's speech." They are:

MIGUEL HIDALGO Y COSTILLA	Liberator	July 30, 1811
JOSE MARIA MORELOS Y PAVON	President	Dec. 21, 1815
FRANCISCO XAVIER MINA	President	Nov. 11, 1817
AUGUSTIN DE ITURBIDE	Emperor	July 19, 1824
MAXIMILIAN, Archduke of Austria	Emperor	June 19, 1867
FRANCISCO I. MADERO	President	Feb. 23, 1913
JOSE PINO SUAREZ	Vice President	Feb. 23, 1913

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 26.—Keen satisfaction was displayed at the palace tonight over late reports which indicated the early disappearance of revolutionary disturbances in the north and in portions of the south.

It is not expected that the Zapatista problem will be solved immediately, but several minor chiefs have announced their willingness to serve the new government.

Governor officials realize the probability of a difficult campaign in the south, but President Huerta, who commanded the federalists in the campaign which most nearly resulted in the ending of the Zapatista trouble and was checked only by Madero's benevolent interference, believes he knows the situation sufficiently well to end the trouble.

The Zapatistas have added to the list of towns they already occupied, Amecameca, on the Inter-oceanic railway, 30 miles southeast of Mexico City, and three others of minor importance. Raiding continues with the usual atrocities, but troops are in pursuit of the murderous bands for whom little rest is promised.

Allegiance Promised.

A revolution in the state of Guerrero appears likely of early settlement, says Jesus H. Carranza, the chief and most persistent rebel leader, under the terms of a peace treaty recently promised.

According to government advices, Carranza's Carranza, former governor of Coahuila, is making little headway in the new revolution inaugurated by him, with Saltillo as a base.

To the report that Emilio Madero was killed, is added the rumor that his brother, Basilio, has met the same fate at Torreon. Both these young men were actively allied with Carranza, and, if true, their taking off doubtless will have a deterrent effect on rebel activity in that district.

Carranza still holds the region about Monterrey, but General Trevino, the federal commander, who is at Monterrey, is said to have dispatched troops in the direction of Saltillo.

The government believes there will be little difficulty in regaining the rebel territory.

Regard Outlook as Hopeful.

The region to the north of Monterrey, including Laredo, now held by the rebels, the government asserts, will soon be added to the loyal districts, and Francisco de la Barra, minister of foreign relations, is authority for the statement that Gerónimo Villareal, influential partisan of the new government, has already indicated a desire to cooperate with the new administration.

Colonel Pascual Orozco, Sr., who was allied with that movement, is said to have been for a long time under the domination of Pascual Orozco, Jr., and a telegram sent by

MRS. PANKHURST IS SENT TO JAIL; SAYS TRIAL BY COURT OF MEN IS LEGAL FARCE

Declares She Will Starve; Hostile Feeling Is Aroused by Militant Tactics in England

EPSON, England, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, was committed tonight by the police magistrate here to the charge of inciting persons to commit malicious damage to property. Her defense was reserved for the trial at the assizes.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Pankhurst was sent a message to the Women's Social and Political Union, in which she says that the refusal of bail pending her trial renders it impossible for her to prepare an adequate defense. She adds:

"In these circumstances I repudiate the right of the local authorities, over whom I have no control, to try me. I refuse to consent to a legal farce being enacted, and I shall begin by refusing to conform to the prison discipline while on remand. I shall take no food from the moment I enter prison."

If I am still alive when the time for the so-called trial arrives, the judge, counsel and jury, of men will have the shameful task of pretending

NO HOLDOVERS IN WILSON CABINET

OTHERS DECIDED UPON;
NOT ANNOUNCED

Burleson Is Only Senate or House Member to Be Selected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The cabinet situation which assumed definite proportions last night was not materially changed by today's developments which served only to confirm the finality of the selections of Messrs. Bryan, McAdoo, Daniels and Burleson, and to disclose the steps by which other names had been eliminated from consideration.

It became known that Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania had been offered the portfolio of war and had refused it, basing his decision on the fact that he was a Quaker whose antecedents did not comport with the direction of that department.

It also was disclosed that Mayor Baker of Cleveland had been offered a cabinet position and had declined it because of public interests, and that Edgar H. Farmer of New Orleans, former president of the American Bar association, was being considered in connection with the attorney generalship.

Others Not Announced.

The men who will fill the remaining cabinet places, including the attorney generalship, secretary of the interior, secretary of commerce and labor and secretary of agriculture are said to have been decided on but the place each is to occupy still remains open to change. It is probable also that the position of secretary of labor will be created within the next few days so that Mr. Wilson will have an additional cabinet place to fill. The personnel of these remaining places has not been disclosed as yet.

The field for these positions was narrowed today when it became known that there would be no holdovers from the present cabinet and that no names other than that of Mr. Burleson would be chosen from the membership of the senate or house of representatives.

Gossip was active today concerning the choice of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston for a cabinet position. His name was connected with the filling of the post of secretary of the department of commerce and labor.

All Arrangements Made for Reception of "Pilgrim Army"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Final preparations were completed today for meeting the suffragist "army" under "General" Rosalie Jones, marching to Washington from New York. Cavalry, women, automobiles and marchers will form a large reception committee to greet the marchers at Hyattsville, Md.

A troop of 10 cavalry women under the command of "General" Genevieve Wimsatt, will ride to Hyattsville early Friday morning and escort the "army" to a point in the city where the remainder of the committee will be waiting. It also is planned to have automobiles, loaded with leading suffragists, go as far as Hyattsville. The marchers also will be met by 40 members of the Girls' Cross Country Tramping club of Washington. They are to tramp toward Hyattsville and intercept the approaching "army" and return to the city with it.

Mrs. Olive Schultz of New York, driving her scout car, arrived here today for the reception and entertainment of "General" Jones and her pilgrims. On the arrival of the marchers at the headquarters here, a mass meeting will be held, at which a number of leading suffragists will speak. Among them will be Mrs. Raymond Brown of New York and Miss Margaret Foley, also of New York. The principal speech will be made by "General" Jones.

Jameson arrived at the suffrage headquarters. Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge, Mrs. Meredith Nicholson and Mrs. O. E. Quarters from Indianapolis late today. All will take part in the pageant, March 2.

Would Annex Territory.

STEFANSSON PLANS 4-YEAR ARCTIC TRIP

Party Will Endeavor to Make
Explorations of Northern Seas

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Vilhjalmur Stefansson, discoverer of the Alaskan Eskimo, made public today his plans for the four-year expedition he plans to lead to the Arctic next May. In this time he hopes to wipe off the map much of the white space indicating unexplored regions of the far north.

Stefansson and his companions—eight or 10 picked men of science—will sail out of Esquimaux Bay, north of Victoria, the latter part of May or early in June, on the "Thetis" steam whaler, Karkuk, built and owned by the Canadian government. The Karkuk now lies in San Francisco harbor, having the next 10 days she will be overhauled and sent to Esquimaux. She will fly the British flag as the entire cost of the expedition is to be borne by the Canadian government and will carry a crew of 14.

Will Take Wireless Outfit.

The banknotes will carry the party as far north as ice-filled seas will permit. Under favorable conditions they expect to reach land and secure information in the region of the North Pole. There they will establish a base, sending the vessel back and remaining for the winter. If this cannot be carried out, the expedition probably will land at Herschel Island, remain there a week to establish a primary base, return to Prince Patrick and spend the winter either there or at Herschel Island. In the spring they will go north. They will return to civilization in September, 1918. Dr. E. M. Anderson, who was with Stefansson on his last trip, will be second in command. The others of the party have not been selected.

A powerful wireless apparatus, designed to carry messages 1,500 miles, will keep the explorers in daily touch with the world. This apparatus will be erected wherever they establish their base.

Not After the Pole.

A million square miles of snow and ice north of the North American continent and Siberia will be explored as far as possible. The party is not searching for the pole. If they find it, it will be by accident. Mr. Stefansson says: "What they want to do is to open the locked islands and seas of the north."

Stefansson will visit the Alaskan coast.

TWO-BATTLESHIP BILL DEFEATED

APPROPRIATION CARRIES
$138,000,000

Wild Scenes of Disorder Mark
Four-Day Debate in the House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—After four days of debate, accompanied at times by scenes of disorder seldom witnessed at the capitol, the house tonight passed the naval appropriation bill carrying approximately $138,000,000, and authorizing the construction of one battleship, six torpedo boat destroyers and four submarines. An amendment, to provide for one battleship, instead of two, as recommended by the committee, was carried by a vote of 174 to 156.

An amendment offered by Representative Child of New York, and adopted, requires that the battleship shall be constructed in a government navy yard.

As reported by the committee, the bill carried appropriations aggregating $146,000,000, and provided for two battleships, a transport and a supply ship.

Points of order by Representative Slason, in the committee of the whole, struck out the transport and supply ship. Representative Alexander of Missouri, the chairman, holding there was no authority for the appropriations, because no vote of this type ever had been authorized before.

"Big Navy" Men Surprised.

Until today the "big navy" men, headed by Representative Hobson of Alabama, and Representative Ayers of New York, had been confident that the two-battleship program would go through, and the result was by no means certain until the final roll call on the amendment.

Democratic Leader Underwood spoke for one battleship, and when the vote on the amendment came, 146 Democrats voted for the amendment and only 24 against it. Of the Republicans, 105 voted against the amendment and 26 for it.

There was no roll call on the passage of the bill as amended, but Representative Roddenberry of Georgia held up the vote long enough to predict that the senate would send the measure back with the provision for two battleships inserted.

Hobson Amendments Lost.

While the amendment for one battleship, which was offered by Representative Tribble of Georgia, was pending, Representative Hobson introduced amendments to authorize four battleships, three battleships, and one battleship and a dreadnought cruiser. Each proposition was lost by an overwhelming vote.

Throughout the consideration of the bill there were heated exchanges between members and frequent disorder. The climax came when Representative Murray of Massachusetts, standing before the speaker's table, demanding recognition by the chairman, was thrown bodily down four steps and dragged toward his seat by an assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Mr. Murray demanded recognition to make a parliamentary point of order against two members having the same views, acting as helpers of a one-battleship proposition.

Representative Alexander of Missouri, presiding over the house, repeatedly ordered Mr. Murray to the floor, and finally by his direction, Mr. Murray was forcibly removed from the rostrum by a deputy sergeant-at-arms. Speaker Clark took the chair and order was restored.

BOY IS KILLED IN SLIDE NEAR ASPEN

ASPEN, Colo., Feb. 26.—Edward Frost, 13, son of A. W. Frost, was killed in a snowslide on East Aspen mountain today. The youth and his father were hauling a load of ore from the Vesper mine in Spahr Gulch. The slide, starting far up the mountain, crashed into the gulch, then followed the road down which the sled loaded with ore was being hauled. The elder Frost lashed his horses in an effort to escape, but the avalanche hit the rear of the sled, carrying sled, men and team 100 feet before it stopped. The boy, who was on the rear of the sled, was crushed against the sled and buried under the snow. The father brought rescuers who extricated the body.

18 PARIS AUTO BANDITS ARE FOUND GUILTY

PARIS, Feb. 26.—(Thursday)—All but four of the 22 prisoners who have been bandits who terrorized Paris and its environs in 1911-12, were found guilty by a jury in the assize court early today. The exceptions were Rodriguez and the three women, Maitrejean, Schoofs and Leclerc.

WOMEN MAY EMIGRATE TO A SUFFRAGE STATE

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—An exodus of Massachusetts women to some state granting them suffrage was declared by Dr. Harriet H. Clark at the annual hearing before a legislative committee today to be inevitable unless the word "male" was stricken from the provision of the state constitution covering the qualification for voters.

FEW GRAFTERS ON FORCE NOW—GAYNOR

Committees Begin Sweeping
Investigation of New York Police

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—The investigation, now being conducted by the board of reform and one organization of citizens joined today in an effort to reform the New York police force. The result of their labors probably will be legislative bills providing for sweeping changes.

Mayor Gaynor was the principal witness before the legislative committee while two of his predecessors, former Mayors McClellan and Low gave their views to the committee of reform. At the same time the city committee, appointed immediately after the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, laid before the legislative committee details of its investigations.

Mayor Gaynor declared that among the 10,000 New York policemen, there were not more than 30 grafters. His predecessor, Mayor McClellan, said that while the rank and file of the force were the finest in the world, their officials were the worst.

Would Add New Blood.

Mayor Gaynor suggested an infusion of new blood into the force by permitting the appointment of inspectors from outside.

It is hoped to bring into the force many officers and other trained men not under the domination of the system.

In explaining his views the mayor said:

"Before I came into office, the heads of the police department went out of office, one after another, millions of dollars were paid out of the city treasury, some of them men have their houses, their automobiles, their wives, I want to know who is going to do it now a rich man?"

"Why, when I became mayor, the police were getting about $3,000,000 a year in graft from saloon keepers. There isn't a penny of it paid today. Except perhaps, here and there by some swamp or sounder. The police of New York have other things to do than to see if a man takes a glass of beer on Sunday."

"I hope there will be no delusion at Albany. Do not think that the police of New York city are failing in their duty or are corrupt; it is not so. And don't get the notion that the newspapers aren't in this graft; they've been in it up to their armpits for 25 years."

WINTER DELAYS WAR IN BALKANS

TWO MAIN FORTRESSES
ARE HOLDING OUT

Bulgarian and Turkish Armies Are Entrenched at Bulair

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 26.—Fighting was reported today between the Bulgarians and Turkish forces at Bulair, in the Gallipoli peninsula. No details have been received.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—The operation of the five armies engaged in the Balkan war has been brought practically to a standstill by the winter weather. Snow storms are frequent and the roads are in a deplorable state.

To date, official dispatches upon which the world is now compelled to rely for news from the theatre of war, repeat the stereotyped statement: "Nothing of importance has occurred."

The news from the neighborhood of Adrianople is continuing. The Bulgarian war department has been busy, but a dispatch from a Bulgarian correspondent inside the city says that on February 24 the Bulgarians were in delivering desperate and in the darkness, shells on the fortress and surrounding country and fruitlessly. The correspondent confirms the report that the Turkish war office is still at Adrianople, the military commander of Adrianople, that he has been in getting a fresh supply of munitions.

At Bulair the Bulgarian and Turkish armies are entrenched, patiently awaiting a break in the weather.

EXPENDITURE RECORDS BROKEN BY DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Democratic opposition to the big expenditure bill, which has been introduced by the house, broke today when the measure was taken up for passage. Senators Smith and O'Gorman led the opposition and demanded that they be reduced in many particulars.

"We already have gone on record as spending more money than any other Congress in history," said Senator Smith, "and I do not see any reason for passing many of these big items."

"If the senate is prepared to use public funds in this indiscriminate manner," said Senator O'Gorman, "I cannot join with it, although my attitude may imperil some items of vital importance to the state of New York."

Postoffice buildings to be authorized in small cities aroused the criticism of the opponents of the bill.

HECKER NEWSPAPER LIBEL BILL MEETS WITH DEFEAT IN SENATE; TOO STRINGENT

Senator Hilts Calls Attention to Irregularities of Public Utilities Measure

ST. LIBEL BILL KILLED.

Senator Hecker's newspaper libel and liability law met its expected end this morning when it was defeated on third reading in the senate by a vote of 16 to 16, every member voting aye or no. Those voting with the minority in favor of the bill were: Adams, Barlow, Cornforth, Hayden, Hecker, Hilts, MacArthur, Napier, Parrish, Pearson, Reynolds, Sharpley, Stephen, Tucker, Van Tilburg, West. Senator Cornforth said that he had received letters in favor of the bill from individuals, organizations and newspapers.

While the defeat of the bill was generally expected, it developed a surprising strength on second reading. This was due in part to a personal desire to support Hecker's pet measure by senators who believed that the

THE Y. W. C. A.

IT is doubtful whether there is a more useful organization in Colorado Springs than the Young Women's Christian Association. For years it struggled along with a small membership, inadequate quarters and no money long after the similar organization for men had erected a fine building and become a real power in the community. But in the last two or three years the Y. W. C. A. has grown rapidly in membership and in usefulness. It has raised money for a handsome and costly building, which is now under construction. Its work has been extended in such a way that it is a vital force in the lives of its 600 members.

Now it is proposed to double this membership, and a "whirlwind campaign" has been organized for the purpose, to continue until March 5. By such systematic effort it is altogether probable that the desired number will be secured. The dues are so small that anybody can afford to join, and the benefits are so great that few can afford to forego them.

The work of the "Y. W." is thoroughly practical, embracing classes in domestic science and other useful branches, and with the completion of the new building it will be considerably enlarged. It supplies an influence in the lives of innumerable young women which is not afforded by any other agency, the influence at once of a Christian home and a training school. For these reasons it ought to be enthusiastically supported by the entire community, and those who support it by taking out memberships may be assured that the benefits will be mutual.

BAD ADVICE

COMMENTING on the possibility of war with Mexico, a Denver paper remarks that if the conflict ensues a large volunteer army will be needed, and that they ought to be trained and drilled at some army post before being placed in actual service in Mexico. It suggests Fort Logan as the best place and urges the Colorado delegation in Congress to get busy on a scheme to secure the disbursement of a few millions of Government money at that post, so that Denver may profit thereby.

Of course the idea is purely fanciful, for volunteer armies are trained in the field in times of war, and not at a post. Nevertheless it is profitable to consider the consequences of this sort of advice. Every Congressman is anxious to make himself "solid" with his constituents by securing Federal appropriations for postoffice buildings, army posts, etc., in his district. Hence the disgraceful pork barrel bills, one of which was rushed through Congress last week by a viva voce vote, the members being afraid to put themselves on record by a yea-and-nay vote. Their unwillingness to stand up and be counted is easily understood by an inspection of the items, many of which were grants of from $20,000 to $50,000 for postoffices in towns of 1,500 population.

This petty policy of seeking the momentary welfare and serving the purely selfish interests of a single constituency, rather than the real welfare of the country as a whole, is responsible for not a little of the vicious legislation enacted. The map of the country is dotted with army posts located by this form of political wire-pulling, and in the opinion of military authorities three-fourths of them are relatively worthless, because they are in the wrong places. Yet their erection and maintenance costs hundreds of millions of public funds. Fort Logan owes its existence in the first place to Denver's hunger for the money it would spend, and not to any real necessities of the Army. Indeed, War Department officials want to abandon it entirely, so we may be sure that if further appropriations are made for its enlargement it will be another case of pork barrel.

The New York Sun speaks of Mr. Bryan's appointment to the State Department as "a precious and pinguinuous fact." It would have been equally clear to refer to it as a "taioisetaioinhrdly fact."

THE WRECKLESS RAILROAD

A WRITER in the Weekly declares that if one-half the waste due to wrecks could be eliminated American railroads could increase their net earnings by $25,000,000 annually. Perhaps they could. Perhaps they could do even better, but isn't there a point beyond which money and ingenuity cannot go in the effort to make railroading safer? Railroad managers do not relish wrecks, for they are tremendously costly. On some lines many accidents are undoubtedly due to the failure of the company to grant enough money for better equipment. But on the more important lines untold millions are spent to attain safety. Yet the wrecks occur.

And it is safe to assume that in such cases most of them are due to really unavoidable causes. The best and costliest steel rail will break, alternate freezing and thawing will loosen the roadbed, and when we reach the human equation there is no limit to the possibilities. Telegraph operators make mistakes, engineers and conductors misread orders, and always will, no matter how skillful or coolheaded they may be. The wreckless railroad is still a long way in the future.

General Huerta complains that he found the Mexican treasury almost empty when he took office, and had to borrow money from individuals to pay his troops. That's the milk in the cocoanut. If the Mexican treasury were always known to be empty such patriots as Huerta would be deprived of the chief incentive to start revolutions.

Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan of Turkey, is publishing his memoirs in a German magazine. He says, "If one-half of what one reads about the women of the West is true the lot of the men must be lamentable." As proprietor of an extensive harem, of course Abdul isn't particularly concerned in the lot of the women of his country.

Appropos of the Henwood case in Denver, it may not be altogether reasonable to remark that if all of the people in the United States who feel contempt for the courts were sent to jail for it, prison walls would have to be built around the entire country.

The last survivor of the charge of the Light Brigade has again died. Judging by the number of "last survivors" who have passed away in recent years, the noble Six Hundred must have originally included the whole British army.

Bright idea! Why not have all the snow that is now being hauled off the streets dumped on the dry farming lands? Apparently there is enough of it to insure bountiful crops all over the country.

THE SERVANT PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
In the article headed "The Servant Problem" and signed "Mrs. M. Mason," in your paper this morning, it seems she is confusing the word and occupation of companion and servant.

When we employ a maid and pay her exorbitant wages she is not "killing us something for nothing," and we have the right to all the privacy and privileges of a home. When we have to have our freedom of ideas and speech curtailed by the party of the second part at the table while enjoying our repast we had just as well open a first-class boarding house and make it a business proposition. The shopkeeper or factory employer does not take his employees into his home, seat them at the table and assist them in their evening chamber. The terms "servant" and "companion" must be kept distinctly apart in fact and in practice. They have nothing in common and never can have.

Let us have summer schools for instructing the incompetent in domestic science, and such procedure will go a long way toward ameliorating conditions.

WORK FOR THE YOUNGSTERS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
While talking about cooking schools for girls, what is the matter with a cooking school at home, in one's own kitchen, with mother as a teacher? It might also be a good thing for mother. I am a believer in home teaching of most things, cooking and morals particularly. I believe in work for children; few are ever overworked. Give them pleasant employment as soon as they are old enough to become restless for something to do. It pleases a child to think he is useful, helping father or mother. Don't allow him to grow up thinking he must be waited upon. Let him wait upon others, teach him independence and industry. Teach him that shoveling snow from the sidewalk is good for him, and a help to dad, and no harder than building a snow house; that digging a posthole for the fence is no harder than digging a playhouse in the side of a sandbank, and he is doing some good.

I do not believe in all work and no play, but I believe that a child should be taught that work should come first, that he should have a regular duty to perform, a little responsibility, chores we used to call them, that must be attended to before anything else. I don't believe in a certain extent in favor of child labor. I believe that more children are ruined by being brought up in idleness than from being overworked, and the same will apply to adults. The boy who goes to bed tired from work he has done in the garden sleeps better than the one who goes to bed after an afternoon at the strenuous game of football. And the girl who goes to bed tired from helping at the week's washing is no more tired than the one who has spent two or three hours at a dance hall, and is much safer. I may be old-fashioned, but I believe there is nothing quite so good as employment to keep old and young from mischief.

WATER WASTE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
The water superintendent's report for 1912 shows the average daily consumption of water in Colorado Springs to be 136 gallons per day per capita or an amount far in excess of any other city of its size in the country.

The superintendent suggests the installation of water meters as a remedy for this excessive use, and names one of the ways of wasting as letting the water run on the lawn at night.

I think the meter question is one of the most important facts for the city to look into, as the present flat rate induces waste. There are a large number of water motor washing machines in use the year round without additional rent, and in the winter when we should store water it is wasted to save faulty plumbing.

If the city would instruct its plumbing inspector to inspect and condemn old and faulty plumbing there would be a marked decrease in the waste of water.

Until the powers that be that are mentioned by the superintendent decide to do something about the waste of water we will continue to have a shortage.

HAND LABOR VS. MACHINERY.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
The evolution of the hand tool into the gigantic machine tool of today, and the consequent greater inequality of wealth distribution, is responsible for Socialist agitation. In some respects the worker has been the loser by this evolution. Although obliged to serve a long apprenticeship, the artisan with the hand tool lived in greater security than the skilled worker of today. A new invention, or a new process of manufacture has, in many instances, rendered useless long years of apprenticeship. Machinery has minimized the need for skilled workmen, in fact, even children of ten years can, and do, operate machines. This fact constitutes Socialism's most damning indictment against capitalism. The machine has to a great extent robbed the workman of the joy of craftsmanship.

It was impossible to exploit the hand tool worker to any great degree, because his product was so small that his employer was obliged to give him the major portion of the value he produced, so supply has actually physical needs. The introduction of machinery made exploitation possible on a scale hitherto undreamed of.

The following is a comparison between time required in manufacturing commodities by hand and machine processes:

	Hours.	Machine Method.
Pitchforks—50 pitchforks, 12-inch lines.....	200	12
Plow—1 landside plow, oak beams and handles.....	115	3
Shoes—10 pairs men's fine grade.....	222	28
Butter—500 pounds, in tubs.....	125	12

(Taken from thirteenth annual labor report.) (See Appeal to Reason arsenal of facts, 1912, page 66 and 67.)

Thus we see that machinery enabled workers in these industries to increase their output on an average more than elevenfold. But are they receiving eleven times as much for their work, as their predecessors with hand tools?

Socialists believe that private ownership of the means of production (which includes machinery), is the root of most of the evil that exists today. They advocate the collective ownership of everything that concerns the public welfare.

Where Are the Songs of Yesterday

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Outside my window the other morning I heard a sweet, childish voice singing. I love to hear children sing and I stopped my work the better to listen. And these are the words that sweet child's voice was singing, "I wonder who's buying the wine for lips that I used to call mine." At that point three other children who were coming down the street took up the refrain and the quartet triumphantly ended—

"I wonder if she ever tells him of me.
"I wonder who's kissing her now."
Now, one of these children I did not recognize, but the other three I knew to be from refined families in our neighborhood. And none of the singers was over 12 years old.

Now what do you think of that?
Myself, I think it is a criterion of our state of civilization that our children, the children of the refined and sheltered homes, should sing such songs like that.

Perhaps you will tell me that this is an isolated and unusual instance. I tell you it is not. Just yesterday I heard one of the sweetest little girls I know cheerfully singing a song in which a child tells of having been promised a rubber doll if she should be good, and ends up by pleading, "Now don't you tell her, I've got a teller down in the cellar behind the wood."

And not long ago, when I had as my guest a young girl of 15, whose bringing up has been ultra-vigilant, I was completely flabbergasted—yes, that's the only word that will do—to hear her singing something about a lady and a fragile bathing suit which gave way at the wrong time and place and caused a nearby fish to scurry off crying, "This is no place for a good fish like me."

Tell me, grown-ups, did we used to have songs like that in our childhood? Yes, I know, there were some rather improper ballads which we communicated to each other with bated breath, but were songs like that the stuff of our musical knowledge, to be sung openly and commonly on the streets and everywhere? It doesn't seem to me that they were. And on the contrary, it does seem to me that the every-day popular songs, the songs which our children inavoiably hear and learn, have grown astonishingly vulgar and coarse.

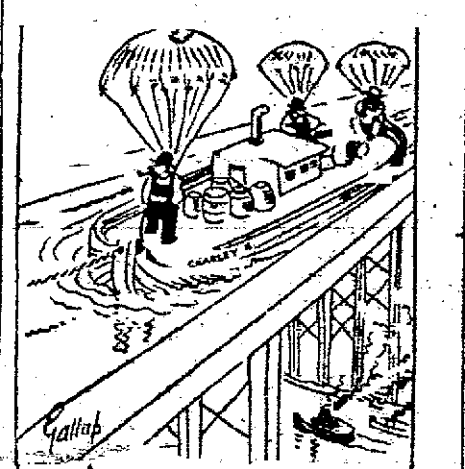

Can't something be done about it?

Rochester N. Y.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Rochester is a town of 225,000 people, hidden away between Buffalo and New York city on the New York Central railway. It was founded by the falls of the Genesee river, which at this point descends over 200 feet in three daring leaps, and which provided horsepower for the flour mills of New York state when the steam engine was still in its feeble and spluttering infancy.

Rochester is divided into six segments like a cherry pie, by the Genesee river, the Erie canal and the four-track New York Central. The Genesee elbows its way through the business part and compels the Erie canal to cross it on a high stone viaduct. Hardy mariners regard Rochester with terror, and always equip themselves with parachutes while their canal boats are crossing on this dizzy edifice.

Rochester prides itself on having 1,700 factories, most of which are equipped with smoke consumers. It makes more cameras than any other city and produces trainloads of shoes, flour, carriages and nursery stock each month. Rochester factories stand in grassy parks and have landscaped gardeners. The result is so ornamental that Rochester may soon place factories along its boulevards in order to improve the residence district.

Rochester has a university, a theological seminary and less politics than any other New York city. It will be one of the stations on the new Erie canal and will some day be a seaport on Lake Ontario, having already advanced to within a few miles of the lake shore. It points with pride to its churches, banks and parks, and also to the fact that the Twentieth Century Limited hesitates briefly while passing through the city. It is situated in the middle of the apple and scenery districts of western New York and can be lived with pleasurable results, even by particular people. In 1920 it will have 300,000 citizens and a union station on the new large line.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 27, 1883.

Smallpox was raging in Leadville and several other towns in that vicinity and Dr. Kimball, our county physician, was considering steps to be taken to prevent its being introduced to Colorado Springs.

Considerable excitement was prevalent at Grand Junction due to the reported discovery of oil about 19 miles east of that town.

It was expected that about 220,000 Texas cattle would be driven into Colorado during 1883. They were being contracted for at prices ranging from $10.50 for yearlings to $19 for three-year-olds.

THE HASKIN LETTER

COOPERATIVE MARKETING

V—PRODUCERS' ASSOCIATIONS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The department of agriculture has prepared a list of the principal farmers' organizations which have been established for the purpose of cooperatively marketing the products of their farms and orchards. A synopsis of the methods of these various organizations is given, and the results achieved thereunder are outlined. California ranks first among the states in the matter of cooperative selling organizations, and the Atlantic seaboard states show a large number of organizations which have been handling farm products with a high degree of success.

One of the most interesting and widely known of the cooperative selling organizations is the California Fruit Growers exchange. The annual orange and lemon crop of California amount to some 30,000,000 boxes or 50,000 carloads. There are from ten to twelve thousand orange and lemon growers in the state, four-fifths of whom are members of cooperative selling associations. Sixty per cent of these are federated in the California Fruit Growers exchange. This association acts as a clearing house for the crops of the 6,500 affiliated growers, providing the facilities for distributing and marketing the fruit. There are three foundation stones upon which the federation is based: First of these is the local association, which corresponds to the county government in our political system. A number of these local associations form a district association, which corresponds to our state government. These district associations in turn form the exchange, which corresponds to the federal government. Each district association has the right to control its own affairs so long as they do not conflict with the constitution and laws of the exchange, and each local association can do as it pleases, within the bounds of the constitution of which it is a member.

Service at Cost.

The services of all these associations, from the small local up to the big central exchange, are rendered to the members of the association at actual cost. The entire net proceeds, after actual expenses are deducted go to the growers themselves. The exchange comprises 116 local associations, each of which has from forty to two hundred members. Each local association is organized so that the fruit grower receives the full proceeds of his crop, less the cost of the fruit, and the exchange receives the balance. Each grower receives his proportionate share of the net proceeds of each grade of fruit sold. Many of the associations pick the fruit, and some of them prune and fumigate the trees for their members. When a carload is assembled it is marketed through the district exchange, of which the local association is a member, through the agents and facilities which the central exchange provides.

There are seventeen exchanges. They order the cars and see that they are correctly placed for loading; they keep a record of the cars shipped by each association; they receive the returns for the fruit sold from the exchange, and turn it over to the local associations.

The central exchange has a capital of $15,000, and is managed by seven directors, through a general manager. Each district has one director. The central exchange has a bonded agent in each of the principal markets of the country, from whom it receives regular telegraphic advices as to market conditions, and carload sales. These advices are issued to the local associations in daily bulletins. Business is done on a cash basis, prompt accounting being made. The exchange takes care of all litigation arising out of the marketing of the fruit, handles all claims, conducts an extensive citrus-fruit advertising campaign, and develops new markets. Every shipper reserves the right to regulate and control his own shipments, to develop his own brand, to use his own judgment as to when, where, how and at what prices he shall sell, even in competition with his fellow members.

Aid for Fruit Growers.

The California Walnut Growers association renders about the same service to the walnut growers of southern California as is rendered to the citrus fruit growers by the Fruit Growers exchange. The general association is made up of members of local ones. The central body has made uniform rules for grading and bleaching. The walnuts must be passed over a screen with meshes one inch in diameter. All which pass over are "No. 1" and those which go through are "No. 2." They must be free from stains and blemishes and the "crack" of these nuts must show that at least 85 per cent have good meats.

These two associations are typical of a large number of selling organizations in California. Another type of cooperative organization is the marketing of crops in the Grand Junction, Colorado, Fruit Growers association. It is a stock company composed exclusively of fruit growers, with a membership of 1,000. Its objects are to market fruit produced by its members advantageously; to broaden the deciduous fruit market; to encourage better methods of growing, and to handle the fruit that is shipped. It handles the marketing of all the supplies necessary for the proper maintenance of their orchards, such as spraying machines, spraying materials, boxes, fertilizer, and nails. Experts are employed to teach the members proper methods of growing, spraying, and packing their fruit. The association handles its own distribution and sales. It sells direct to the wholesale fruit dealers through its own brokers, and the growers receive the balance on the basis of cost for packing, refrigeration, and such items and 7 per cent of the net proceeds after these items are deducted.

Rocky Ford Association.

The Rocky Ford Melon Growers association markets cantaloupes only. It pays its distribution agent 12 1/2 per cent on the gross proceeds of the sale, and the office expenses amount to about 2 1/2 per cent.

The Florida Citrus Fruit exchange is the representative Florida cooperative organization. It is described as a nonprofit cooperative corporation, made up of wheels within wheels, and having headquarters at Tampa. Its function is to act as the general sales agent of all the local associations embraced in its membership. It is organized after the plan of the California Fruit Growers exchange as described above, having its local associations, its subexchanges, and its general exchange. The local association picks, grades and packs the fruit and places it in the cars ready for shipment. The subexchange takes the loaded car and delivers it to the exchange, which distributes, sells and collects the money. The United States and Canada are divided into numerous sales districts, each presided over by a sales agent who must devote himself exclusively to the sale of exchange products. In the big markets, the exchange maintains salaried men, who place the fruit on the auction market and represent the exchange until the money is collected. It is stated that this method of selling stimulates distribution and consumption from three to 10 fold.

Attention to Market Conditions.

Careful attention is paid to market conditions, and fruit is shipped north with the understanding between the exchange and the railroads that it may be diverted at any time. For instance, several carloads of fruit have reached Potomac yards at Washington en route to New York. Telegraphic advices from the market conditions in Gotham will be made when they arrive; thereupon the exchange telegraphs the railroad to divert those cars to Cincinnati or to Pittsburgh. C. E. Thomas Out for Mayor; Two for Commissioner

In a signed statement given out yesterday, Charles E. Thomas announces that he will be a candidate for mayor at the coming election. Thomas is a member of the firm of MacLaren & Thomas, architects, and has been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1898. Two new entries in the commission-ership race, E. E. Baty and John C. Hass, were booked yesterday, when both took out petition papers at the city hall. Baty was for a number of years chief of the fire department, and Hass has been engaged in the coal business here for many years.

Thomas was the only candidate for mayor, and he made formal announcement yesterday of his candidacy. He has received the endorsement of a new organization of young men, known as "The Boosters," and makes the following statement relative to his platform:

Thomas' Statement.

In announcing myself a candidate for the office of mayor of this city, I desire to make the following statement: While the administration of the affairs of a city is a business proposition, it is an unusual one in that the disbursements for operation and improvements are of primary importance, and vitally affect the taxpayer. The receipts of the city are obtained from direct taxes and fixed rates and charges, and therefore require only clerical ability, while the expenditures are the real test of economic efficiency. The citizens have the right to demand that every candidate possess a training which qualifies him for the position he seeks, for only by such training can the unfortunate and expensive mistakes, which so often characterize public service, be avoided. City government is essentially constructive, and its wise administration requires careful consideration not only of present economy, but future needs. Believing that my training qualifies me for this work, and that I possess the tact and moral courage necessary to make it effective, I submit my name for the consideration of the electors of this city.

I came to Colorado Springs in 1898, and for the past six years have been a member of the firm of MacLaren & Thomas, architects. My profession has made it necessary to investigate sociological and economic community questions, especially as applicable to this city, and to inform myself as to public utilities, such as water, sewer, water, lighting and transportation systems. Several years ago I made an extended trip, visiting many cities in America and Europe. The special information which I was gathering brought me in contact with the municipal officials in many places, and enabled me to study at close range their varied civic questions, and observe what they had accomplished in ownership and control of public utilities, and in city improvements and beautification.

Puts Self on Record.

I desire to place myself on record in the following:
I am confident that a substantial saving in the cost of administration can be shown without loss of efficiency, by the application of such economic methods as are usually employed in business operations of similar magnitude. The loss of two per cent in the operation of a corporation would result in the repayment of these responsible for same, and the affairs of this city are entitled to equally careful and skillful management.

I am in favor of such improvements, and only such improvements, as will benefit all, and promote the general welfare of the city.

I believe that honesty and good business demands that every administration shall bear its own burdens and solve its own difficulties without consideration of political expediency. Our charter contains two mandatory clauses, one covering the immediate consideration of refunding of bonds, and the other commanding the codification and publication of our laws and ordinances within two years. The wisdom of the former provision is evidenced by the financial predicament which confronts us. Procrastination in this case has proven not only unwise but most expensive, and every further delay, but adds to the difficulties. The necessity of codified laws where a city has undergone such radical changes as ours, is too obvious to require discussion.

I am heartily in favor of the ordinance relative to the refunding of the water bonds, which is to be referred to the taxpayers, not only because it is necessary, but because it is the legitimate use of our civic credit to tide over our financial difficulties until such time as our increased revenues from our public utilities are available for retiring our obligations. For this reason I was opposed to the original suggestion of a bond issue of $500,000, because this city must raise a sinking fund of about $466,000 in the next three years, and such an inadequate measure would have entailed another election with further losses and difficulties.

Public Utility Franchises.

Within 10 years we shall have to decide what shall be done with the franchises of two important public utilities. Whether we shall renew these franchises, with proper provisions for complete municipal control and reasonable profit, or whether we shall engage in municipal ownership, either operating ourselves or leasing to others, are questions of vital importance to this city. As all these methods have been successfully employed in other communities, they are no longer experiments, and wisdom suggests the most careful investigation of each. To do this requires time for the gathering of data and its dissemination for the information of the public and also to obtain such favorable legislation as may be necessary to the particular case sought. Whatever plan is adopted, the city must, under the conditions of its charter, receive a substantial revenue from each of these enterprises, after the lapse of existing franchises, and this revenue will be one of our principal assets.

The estimated expenditures upon the water works and water system are well over $5,000,000. Against this there is a bonded indebtedness of $1,572,000 and the department shows a revenue of about 4 per cent on the entire investment. Disregarding the water works system, the bonded indebtedness of this city amounts to less than $250,000, which indicates that our present high tax rates are largely due to cost of administration. These things considered, the prospects for the future are most hopeful, but we should recognize the fact that the next 10 years must be a real constructive period for this community.

I am in favor of the strict and impartial enforcement of all laws, especially those relating to the safety, morality and general welfare of the community.

Never having taken an active part in party politics, I am of necessity, as well as of choice, nonpartisan.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dizziness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound as directed, without interference with your usual duties and with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—accept no substitute contains no quinine—belongs in every home. Tastes nice. Adv.

M'CLYMONT TO TALK AT THE ART EXHIBIT

Owing to the large attendance at the art exhibit in the federal building, arrangements have been made whereby John I. McClymont, a local artist, is to lecture to the school children about the paintings and their meaning. He will lecture today, tomorrow and Saturday, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. These talks were arranged partly on the request of a number of the teachers in the local schools.

Fifteen children, pupils at the Paterson school, in District No. 2, visited the art exhibit yesterday afternoon. They were accompanied by Miss Moore, a teacher at the school, and Mrs. Atkins, a member of the school board.

MERCHANTS DISCUSS PARCEL POST, ALSO MAIL ORDER BUSINESS

With the report of the committee on the parcel post, as a basis, the whole attention of a meeting of the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce last night was devoted to a discussion of the mail order business and catalogs. The discussion was general and many phases of the question were taken up, but no definite action was taken. The matter probably will be taken up again in the near future, but this meeting was not arranged definitely last night. The meeting last night was presided over by J. C. Johnson, in the absence of the chairman, B. S. Kaufman.

At The Theater

DAVID WARFIELD

David Warfield and David Belasco will hold attention quite to themselves at the Grand Opera House, where David Warfield is to appear for an engagement limited to one night only, Saturday, March 1, in "The Return of Peter Grimm," his latest successful play, by David Belasco, will be easily the center of interest. Local interest will also run high, as both Mr. Warfield and Mr. Belasco have created probably the greatest theatrical entertainments the American stage has known.

A new character to be impersonated by Warfield ranks easily among the most important events of the year to theatergoers. The public is fully aware of the successful career of "The Return of Peter Grimm." All last season it was the reigning success of the Belasco theater, New York, equalling that of "The Music Master," and Mr. Belasco is sending here with Mr. Warfield the original company and production unchanged.

That the occasion will mean also that David Warfield is to add a companion portrait to his Herr Von Bar-wig easily doubles the extraordinary interest in his appearance here. Warfield's place among the few great stage artists of the day is unquestioned. Yet, none will believe that his greatest successes are yet to be won. Mr. Warfield's appearance here will, therefore, be an unusual one, and Peter Grimm, it is fully expected, will prove his greatest triumph.

A play by David Belasco is always of moment to the dramatic world. He is the one American author whose fame is universal, his achievements are watched abroad as keenly as they are admired at home. In "The Return of Peter Grimm," his genius explores a new field of dramatic writing. The story of the play is not given in advance by Mr. Belasco, for he always reserves his thrills and surprises—which no Belasco play yet failed to possess in abundance—for his actual first night.

"The Return of Peter Grimm" is looked upon as David Belasco's most inspired work, and the literary and dramatic world have pronounced it a masterpiece of ingenuity and literary skill.

In the Saturday Evening Post of October 14 Brandt Matthews, that venerable student of letters, gives Mr. Belasco's play beside the works of D'Annunzio, Maeterlinck and Hauptmann "Peter Grimm," says Mr. Matthews "is not only a better constructed play than Maeterlinck's 'Monna Vanna' and Hauptmann's 'Sunken Bell,' but it is more logical in its movement, more vitally poetic, more sincerely imaginative and more subtly truthful in its philosophy."

Mr. Belasco is sending here the same company and production seen in New York, unchanged. All the old favorites, including Marie Bates, Janet Dunbar, Marie Reichenhardt, Joseph Brennan, Thomas McHugh, William Boag, John F. Webber, Percy Holton, Henry F. Green and Tony Bevan are again to be with us.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.50—can easily be made at home and will find use that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, hoarseness and other throat troubles. Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant.

The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in quaiaccol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been

SPORT NEWS

WILL IRWIN SAYS TREND IS TOWARD SEMIPROFESSIONAL

Tells of Heavy "Expense Money" That Is Paid to So-Called Amateur Athletes

By WILL IRWIN

From Colliers Weekly

The journalist was always in a position to see things which he can print for a living and find out the truth about them. He is not a person who is easily deceived, but the evidence would not stand the test of a serious investigation. Some again are mere gossip, but the experienced reporter is likely to believe them also as a general rule. He knows that in nine cases out of ten there is a basis of truth for gossip. The truth gets twisted and exaggerated by much telling and retelling, it gathers picturesque detail as it goes along, but the kernel is there. What everybody says must be true, a more nearly sound than most general statements.

I begin with this defense because I am putting forth a story which has no basis other than gossip—but the kernel of gossip which the old reporter recognizes as standing on truth. It has to do with the Thorpe case—the return of the Olympic committee of the prizes given to our greatest all round athlete because he has confessed to playing two seasons of bush league professional baseball.

I was with the American team at the Olympic games and during my three weeks stay in Stockholm I visited Jack and forth a great deal with the athletes and athletic followers of the team, six other nations who went to Sweden last summer. And if there is anything in gossip not more than one Olympic winner in four American or European would stand the same close scrutiny which our committee has given to the record of Thorpe. To begin with Thorpe himself, that he had played a certain amount of summer baseball was known to many of the other athletes. They mentioned it quite as a matter of fact. None knew the details, none could name the team or the league, but all had heard it. There was nothing startling in that gossip about other. We had with us in fact an element which the reporters at least mentioned commonly—the "semi-pros." Some of them young men of less than moderate circumstances have lived for years without any visible means of support. Yet they have managed, all this time, to keep themselves well-nourished enough to live on nearly every week—at outdoor games, in summer and indoor games in winter. Just how? An experienced sporting reporter explained the simplest part of the process. You see, he said, when a committee wants one of them very good, it can come to the point of expense on a Vanderbilt and St. Regis scale—assume that he'll go to the best hotels, and eat the most expensive food. If he wants to go to a cheaper hotel and eat plainly, he can save the difference. There's almost a salary in that! Remember I'm talking only gossip.

These athletes were well known to us all their position in the athletic world was clearly understood. It was a kind of irony of fate, however, that they showed rather poor at the games. Not one of them for Thorpe was never included in the list of things the school and university continent is far less touched with professionalism than the other classes.

All this sounds like good material for the British press. It would be very not the other nations including the British in the same boat if we go on gossip. I met an enthusiastic South African and asked him about their team. Simon pure amateur—oh in a manner of speaking, he said frankly. Of course — has run a race in Johannesburg for money, and I have had his his from expenses. But still they have regular occupations, you know. Then I looked over the French. That Gall team was a source of continual amusement to the more intense Anglo-Saxons. On the day up from Berlin with the most on two days away they were buying fruit and cigarettes from the windows of their special coach and they all drank copiously of red wine at luncheon. As a consequence, a great many of them blew up mid-course of their events. And their amateur standing it appears they take in the same haphazard spirit. You see said an Anglo-American who should know, they could be out-and-out professionals if they wanted to. No one but a boxer, a fencer or a wrestler could make a living from athletics in France. They run for fun, it is the prize is a medal or a few little bits of the same to them. It is for money, oh certainly. Nearly every one of them at times. But they are amateurs in spirit just the same because they are not living by it.

Among Other Nations.

Then there were the Finns. The bulky little Finnish team was the class of that meet even to Americans were the victors in the essential events. Now athletes in Finland belong to the people the contestants were young carpenters, mechanics, blacksmiths living small and tight. To such men an occasional 20 kroners comes very handy. And going by gossip again—the Finnish team was the first of with the same stick as the French. I heard little gossip of one kind or the other about the German track athletes. But it is at least certain that many of the wrestlers from Austria-Hungary, from Russia, and perhaps from Belgium have occasionally turned their abilities into a little money.

Proceeding then to the English and university athletes as Jackson and Baker are undoubtedly gentlemen amateurs in the strictest definition of the term. The Oxford and Cambridge varsity man is perhaps the only person in the sporting world whose amateur standing we can take at face value. About the other Englishmen however, I heard exactly the same gossip as I heard about the Americans. This man or that had no visible means of support except athletics. This man or that commonly extracted excess expense money out of athletic clubs. The gossip is not without substantial support either. The London Mirror commenting upon the Thorpe incident has acknowledged that the English sent to Stockholm several men whose pure amateur standing is in grave doubt.

Concerning our hosts the Swedes—the winners on paper of the meet—there is less gossip to report. Sport in Sweden is very new. The craze began when Ernie Hyertberg returned from America some five or six years ago. The government has more or less taken the matter in hand, and has done all in its power to make the rank and file of young Swedes amateur athletes. Almost all movements toward the good are pure in the beginning. Yet will any of the Swedes assert that among their Olympic athletes there was none who never jumped on skis for a "consolation"? Will any of the Teutonic or Scandinavian authorities swear that no member of their gymnastic teams ever taught in a gymnasium for a salary?

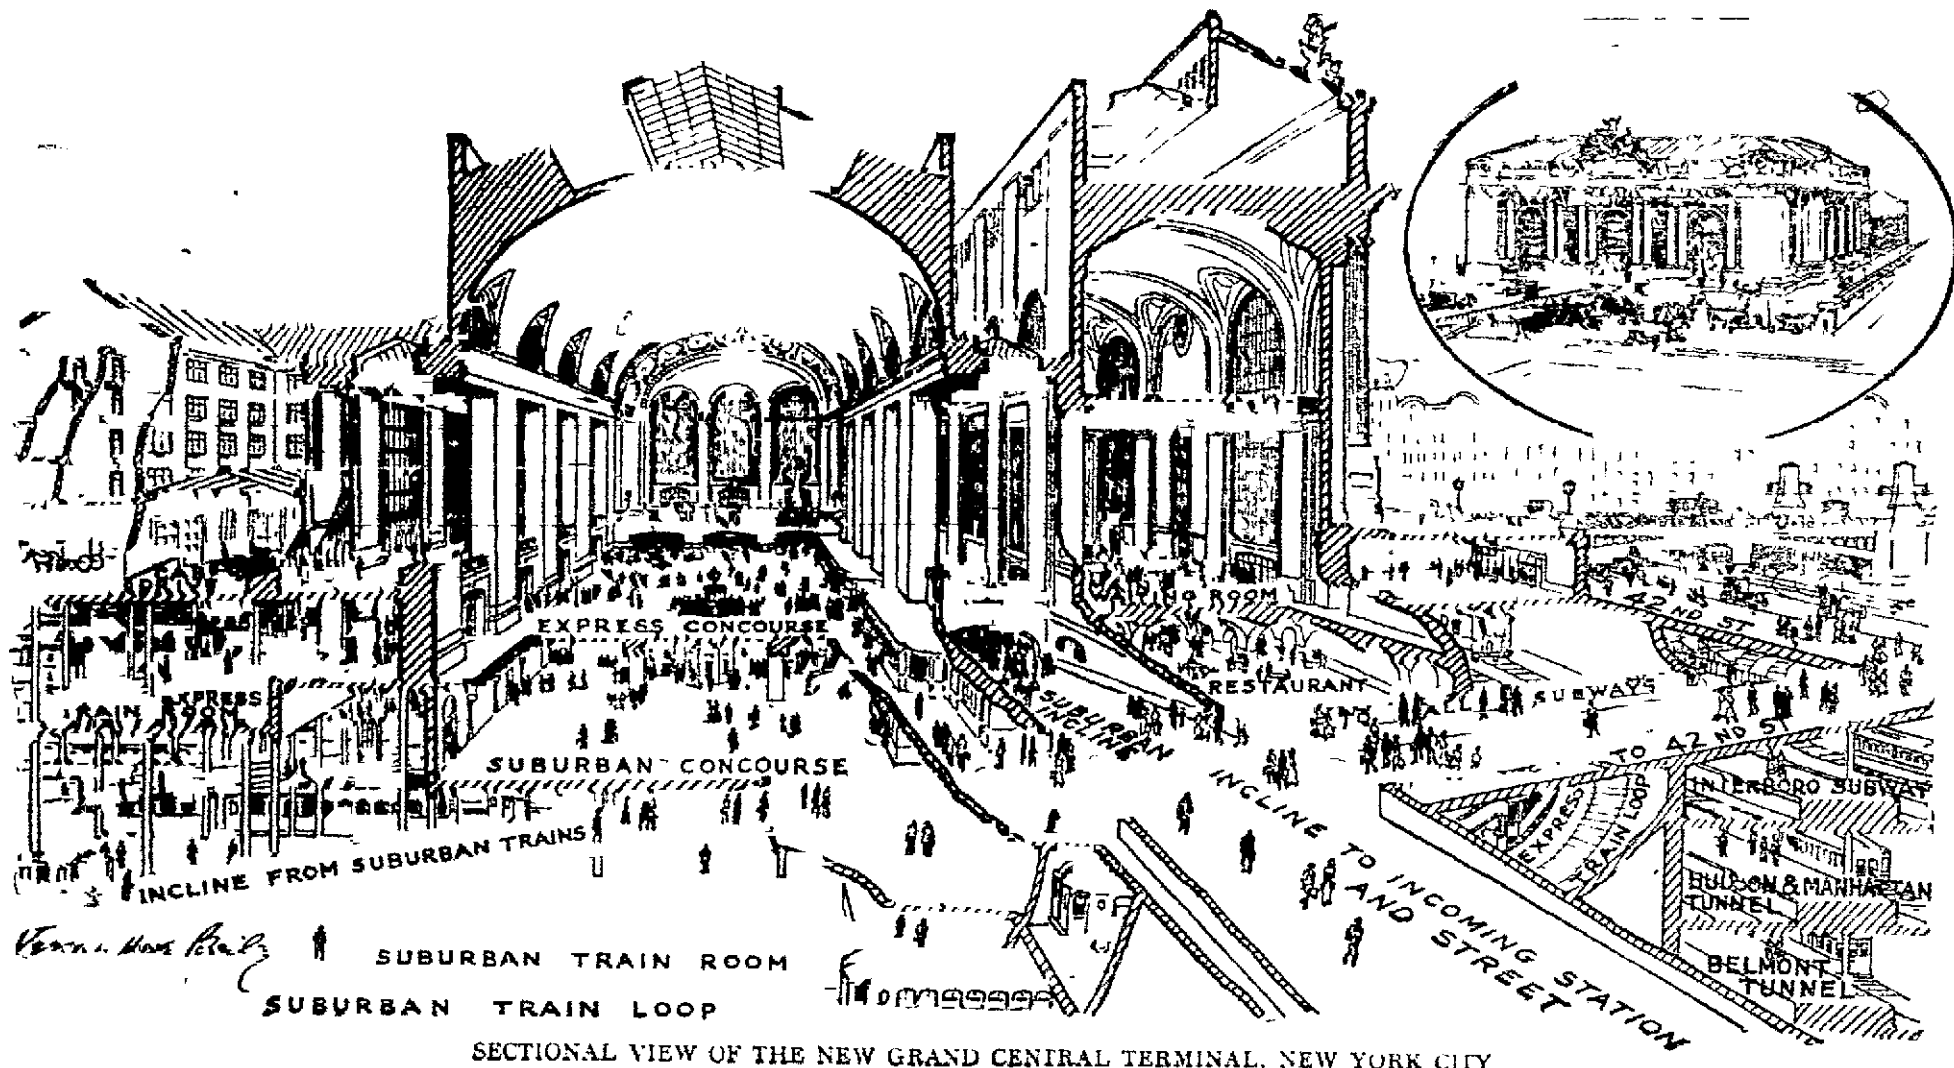

I draw no morals from all this. I state but the facts. General athletics all the world over seem to tend toward semiprofessionalism, and will, I suspect, so long as athletic meets draw gate money. It is easy to keep the rank and file of our mediocre boy athletes, who will never run 100 under 11 nor jump higher than five feet six, semi-pure amateurs. But when it comes to a champion with the capacity for a world's record in his legs and a money value as a drawing card, the job becomes infinitely harder.

REVOLVER TEAMS TIED

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 26.—Two clubs are tied for the championship of the United States Revolver association as the result of the indoor league matches which closed last week. As this title is emblematic of the championship of the United States, the outcome of the shoot-off between the Manhattan club of New York city and the Spokane club of Spokane, Wash., will be watched with interest.

OLYMPIC CHAMP DIES

ATHENS, Feb. 26.—The Greek champion, C. Tschitras, who won the standing broad jump at the 1912 Olympic games at Stockholm, died today.

SECTIONAL VIEW OF THE NEW GRAND CENTRAL TERMINAL, NEW YORK CITY

New Grand Central Terminal The Heart of New York City

THE interior of the New York Central Lines' new Terminal, just opened in New York City and dedicated to the Public Service is a marvel in size and compactness, beauty and utility, comfort and convenience—a terminal larger than and different from any other in the world.

Broad inclined walks take the place of stairs—the distance from street to train is a short, easy walk.

Standing at the center entrance on 42nd Street you can see The Twentieth Century Limited, across the waiting room and concourse.

The movement of the traveler is a progressive one, the ticket windows coming first, the Pullman windows next, the baggage office third, then your train.

There are no steps to retrace, no time lost, passengers proceeding direct from waiting room or concourse to train platforms.

There are two great concourses, each 300 by 120 feet, one for through passengers and the other for suburban passengers.

The tracks on two levels within the terminal aggregate 33 miles. Forty-nine acres are devoted to through traffic and thirty acres to suburban traffic.

Thirty thousand people may be comfortably accommodated in this terminal at one time. Over twenty million will use it in a year, indeed it is planned to accommodate a hundred million people annually.

All trains entering and departing from the Terminal are drawn by electric motors—no smoke, no noise, no dust, no soot.

Train platforms are broad, and level with car floors; no steps to climb, or descend.

For the comfort and needs of women, there are private rest rooms and waiting rooms with maids in attendance, toilet rooms, manicure and hair dressing rooms, and shops—all within the terminal.

Surrounding the Terminal is building a new civic center, embracing convention, amusement and exhibition halls, hotels, clubs, and restaurants, post office, express offices, modern office and apartment buildings and numerous stores and specialty shops.

The new Grand Central Terminal is located in the heart of New York, and is the only station on all lines of local traffic—the subway, the surface and the elevated. More than 7,000 cars pass its doors every day, affording easy transit facilities to the furthestmost part of New York City and suburbs. Within a radius of a few blocks are 49 hotels, 58 clubs and 35 theatres.

Plan your next trip East over the Water-level Route of the New York Central Lines. Enjoy three hours along the Hudson, and reach the heart of New York through this remarkable Terminal.

EASTERN TRACKS TO BE REOPENED SOON

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—From the wording of a statement issued after meetings today of the stewards of the Jockey club and officials of several racing associations, the impression prevails among racing men that the powers that govern horse racing in this vicinity have about decided to open some of the metropolitan tracks for the coming season. The way is held to have been paved for such action by a recent court decision holding oral betting not unlawful, thereby exempting directors of racing associations from liability for betting in this form. Because, all the racing associations were not represented, no definite conclusion was announced as to whether racing would be resumed. That such is the intention, however, could be inferred from the statement made after the meeting. "That owing to the great reduction in the number of horses racing, and the definite programs announced by the Virginia and Maryland associations, which already have secured approval from the Jockey club, those spring meetings will not be conducted with."

In a statement issued by the stewards after discussing the matter they declared that the Jockey club is only a supervisory body and does not control the business policy of any of the racing associations. It is not in its province to say whether there shall be racing, it was pointed out, but should any of the associations decide to open their courses, the Jockey club controls the manner in which such racing shall be conducted.

OSSIFIED MUSCLE LATEST; FOOTBALL INJURY CAUSE

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 26.—While collegiate football playing is considered to be more or less closely associated with the study of the classics, a doctor of this city is thought to be the first physician in America to make use of and translate French and German medical works to aid him in caring for a football injury.

Last fall Glen Simons of Spokane, Wash., now captain-elect of the Drake university football team, was injured. Ossification of the muscles above the knee resulted, an almost unheard of ailment in America. An operation was determined upon, but before it took place the physician had translated several descriptions of operations by French and German physicians, with details of treatment.

The operation, which removed a piece of ossified muscle as large as a man's hand, promises to be successful, although, following the translated advice, a part of the hardened tissue was left to be absorbed.

NO CAPTAIN FOR PORTLAND

Manager Walter McCredie of the Portland, Pacific Coast league nine, says his team will be without a captain during the coming season. "It hurts a man's playing to be the 'goat' of the crowd, blamed for the other fellow's misplays and booed when he is unlucky enough to make a boot. The fans will be unable to center their attacks on one man next season simply because he is unlucky enough to be named captain."

Griffith has 10 outfielders on his roster. All but Clyde Milan have signed.

BOWLING NEWS

The Out West team made a good start in the Commercial league last night at the Overland, and won three straight games from the Colorado Springs Drug company five. The Out Wests lead the league, with a standing of 733. Last night's scores.

CARDS, REACH CAMP

CINCINNATI, Feb. 26.—Miller Huggins and six players of the St. Louis National league baseball club, left here tonight for Columbus, Ga., for spring training. The remainder of the team will report at the training grounds.

CUBS 4; HAVANA 2

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 26.—The Chicago Nationals in training here played their first exhibition game of the season today, defeating the Havana (Cubs) Athletics, 4 to 2.

Comie Mack turned down a friend of Jim Thorpe's who wanted to get Cornelius to sign the Indian. "I sign on to play ball not for advertising purposes," said Comie.

"KID" FOSTER

"Kid" Foster, the speedy young third baseman of the Washingtons, whom Manager Joe Birmingham predicts will develop into the greatest third sacker in either league, Birmingham says he has been watching the work of Foster for some time and that the improvement this youngster has shown in the last year stamps him as a real comer.

BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE
 IN THE MATTER OF THOMAS E. SMALL, BANKRUPT.
 To the Honorable Robert E. Lewis, Judge of the District Court of the United States, for the District of Colorado.
 Thomas E. Small of Colorado Springs in the County of El Paso and State of Colorado, in said district, respectfully represents that on the 13th day of January, last past, he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

WHEREFORE, he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated, this 18th day of February, 1913.

THOMAS E. SMALL, Bankrupt.
 ORDER OF NOTICE THEREON.
 On the 24th day of February, 1913, on reading the foregoing petition, it is ORDERED BY THE COURT, that a hearing be had on the same on the 24th day of April, 1913, before George M. Irwin, Referee in Bankruptcy, at said court in the City of Colorado Springs in said district, at ten o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in The Colorado Springs Gazette, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors of said debtor in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

AND IT IS FURTHER ORDERED BY THE COURT, that the Referee shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

WITNESS, the Honorable Robert E. Lewis, Judge of the said Court, and the seal thereof, at Denver, in said district, on the 24th day of February, 1913.

CHARLES W. BISHOP, Clerk.
 By ALBERT TREGO, Deputy Clerk.

ALL GONE!

Every can of "Bonano," the new hot drink advertised yesterday, is gone. We've ordered more, and it will be here within a few days. Now let us show you our cereal coffees for use in the breakfasting Co-Lo, and Caramel Cereal at 15c, Postum or Fig Prune at 25c, or the new Instantaneous Postum in two sizes, at 30c and 60c each. They're all valuable for their healthful, no-headache qualities, and are very beneficial to those who can't drink coffee.

SPECIAL NOTICE: Future delivery orders for the wonderful, fully delicious fruits prepared under the Richelieu label are now being taken by Mrs. Oliver, representative of Sprague, Warner & Co. Let her save you money on your fruit. Phone us for an appointment.

A Skin of Beauty Is a Joy Forever

DR. T. Felix Gouraud's Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Breaks out, pimples, freckles, moths, patches, rash, and skin diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and restores the skin to its natural condition. It has stood the test of 25 years, and its effectiveness is proven by the fact that it has been used by the most famous beauticians of the world. It is a secret, and its use is a secret. It is a secret, and its use is a secret. It is a secret, and its use is a secret.

Gouraud's Cream is the best of all. It is a secret, and its use is a secret. It is a secret, and its use is a secret. It is a secret, and its use is a secret.
